Seasick Technician Sparks All-Out Rescue

A combined sea-air operation will be launched at dawn today to bring ashore a meteorological technician suffering from chronic seasickness aboard the weathership Stonetown at its stormy mid-Pacific station.

Official sources last night could only identify the stricken man as a Mr. Shurie.

His replacement will be flown by Canso of the 121 Communications and Rescue squadron from Patricia Bay to Sandspit in the Queen Charlottes.

Naval headquarters at Esquimalt meanwhile has dispatched the frigate HMCS New Waterford which is on exercises in the area to pick up the replacement at Skidegate Inlet on Graham Island. She is due to rendezvous with the Stonetown sometime Thursday afternoon.

Department of transport district marine agent Col. Keith Dixon said last night the sick man was making his first tour of duty at weather station Papa.

The Stonetown took up its lonely station 1,000 miles west of Victoria after sailing from this port on March 3. Since that time she has bucked "typically March weather," said Col. Dixon.

T. H. Ryan, spokesman for the weather office in Vancouver, said the weathership here by Sunday.
normally carries five meteorological technicians.

"But this trip the Stonetown sailed short-handed. Only four went out and with the staff cut down to three we have to replace the sick man," he said.

New Waterford is expected to bring him back to hospital

Builders

Pact Means Two Years Of Peace

Seven construction unions in Greater Victoria have agreed to a two-year wage settlement calling for annual increases of 12 cents an hour.

Settlement was announced last night in a joint statement by the unions and Victoria Building Industries Exchange representing contractors.

The new contract will become effective on April 1 with a 12-cent-across-the-board increase. The second increase of 12 cents becomes effective April 1, 1960. The The two-year contract expires March 31, 1961.

Negotiations on behalf of the unions were handled by a joint industries committee representing seven building trades. Affected are the carpenters, laborers, teamsters, painters, roofers, floor layers and brick layers.

The joint statement said clauses and conditions peculiar to each individual trade will be discussed during further negotiations aimed at getting contracts signed before expiry date of the present contract on March 31.

The blanket offer by contractors is expected to ensure labor peace in the local construction industry for the next two years.

Al Staley and Don Bushell represented building trades in negotiations. Tom Harvey was sopkesman for the contractors.

Bennett Plans Usual Rest

Premier Bennett will start his usual post-session rest from the day-to-day grind of his office by visiting various parts of B.C. before the end of the month. Early next month, he will start a full-fledged holiday at an undisclosed location.

Top Servants Set Meeting

Executive of the B.C. Government Employees' Association will meet early next week to consider appealing the injunction barring picketing of government buildings, general secretary E. P. O'Connor said yesterday.

Mr. O'Connor said the association was awaiting a report from its lawyers.

Spring's a Time of Flowers and Rocks and Walks

Victoria's warm spring weather is causing wild flowers to bloom around the city. Linda Gregg, 10, 5379 Parker, a junior member of Victoria Natural History Society, found this satin flower on Mill Hill on a club outing during the weekend.

Biggest find of the whole hike was this rare saxifrage plant found by 13-year-old Trevor Givvens, 4986 West Saanich Road. Regular hikes are held under the guidance of Freeman (Skipper) King. Many of the children have their own collections.

Natural history includes more than just wild flowers—it includes the rock specimen containing feldspar which was found by Ron Hoyer, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Hoyer, 1710 Richmond, during the field trip.—(Colonist photos)

Commission Named

Two Ministers BCPC Chiefs

Complete makeup of the new five-man B.C. Power Commission was announced last night by Premier Bennett.

Named to serve with Dr. Hugh L. Keenleyside as their chairman were Frederick A. Smith, Edmonton, a chartered accountant; Arthur Lee, Trail, an engineer; Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan and Lands and Forests Minister R. G. Williston.

The new commission will take office April 1, the premier said, although Dr. Keenleyside will not arrive in Victoria until April 11.

Dr. Keenleyside as previously reported in the Colonist will have a salary of $20,000; Mr. Smith and Mr. Lee will receive $12,000 each, and the two ministers no extra salary, the premier said.

Mr. Kiernan will be deputy chairman.

"This gives us a good, balanced commission," the premier said, "with an accountant experienced in utilities, a practical engineer, and a close contact with the government.

The five-man commission thus completed will replace a three-man commission composed of T. H. Crosby, chairman, and Dr. H. J. McLeod, both of whom had long planned to retire at the end of this month, and H. H. Griffin, who resigned in disagreement with government finance policy after general manager H. Lee Briggs attacked the government and was dismissed last fall.

"I want to say how pleased I am with the services of Mr. Crosby and Dr. McLeod," Premier Bennett said. "They have rendered great service to this province."

Mr. Smith, 61, was appointed controller of the Canadian Western Natural Gas Company in 1928 after serving with firms of chartered accountants since 1919. In 1933 he was appointed controller, also, of Northwestern Utilities Ltd. and Canadian Utilities Ltd., and in 1956 was appointed vice - president in charge of finance for all three companies.

Mr. Lee, born in Guelph in 1895, came to B.C. in 1907 and began his electrical career in Vancouver in 1912.

For a number of years he has been general superintendent in charge of design, purchasing, construction and maintenance and substations, as well as operating maintenance of the entire system including seven powerhouses, for the West Kootenay Power & Light Comany at Trail.

Both will come to live in Victoria, the remier said.

Dan Ekman Premier's Assistant

Premier W. A. C. Bennett last night announced the appointment of a Vancouver public relations man and former newspaper man, G. Daniel Ekman, as his executive assistant.

The post has been vacant since Ronald Worley resigned at the end of last summer and went into private business.

Mr. Ekman, 33, was born in Telkwa, B.C., and educated there and in Vancouver. He was a reporter, editor and columnist for Vancouver papers from 1943 to 1957 and since then has been engaged in public relations.

His appointment will be effective April 1.

For Oak Bay

Larger Council Urged

Oak Bay councillors are considering a suggestion that two more members should be added to council, making a total of eight councillors and a reeve.

The matter will be dealt with at the next meeting of the council, April 6.

Coun. Geoffrey Ellis made the suggestion that the municipality should ask the provincial government for permission to increase membership as he felt councillors were "being spread too thin" among committees.

"One of us is going to be away three months this year and another will be away a month," he said. "With all these new committee that are being formed, somebody has to represent the council."

Reeve George Murdoch told councillors he felt that the first three months of any council year were the busiest and that the situation would ease once the Oak Bay budget is passed.

Coun. Fred Hawes, six years on the council, commented: "I don't know when we have been faced with so much. There are so many things coming up."

"The work schedule was particularly heavy during the first month," Coun. Gordon Elworthy said. "I wasn't sure what I was getting into."

Survey To Aid Chest

Canadian Welfare Council will conduct a free survey of Greater Victoria next month and offer suggestions to help the Community Chest in this year's fund-raising drive, it was announced last night during the Chest's annual meeting at Spencerhouse, 1951 Cook. (See other stories on Page 12.)

The survey will be conducted by George E. Hart, of Ottawa, executive secretary of the community funds division of the Canadian Welfare Council, who is expected to arrive in Victoria on April 13 and spend one week here.

Many Aspire to 'Miss Victoria'

1959 'Queen' Contest 'Biggest in Canada'

The 1959 Miss Victoria competition — slow to attract entries at first — will be the biggest queen contest in Canada, Junior Chamber of Commerce spokesmen claimed last night.

With the closing date for entries set at April 1, 27 entries have already been received and another 10 girl are known to be entering. And still more are expected to enter before the deadline.

Only last week Jaycees were preparing to sign up contestants for the contest because of the apathy of organizations in sponsoring entries.

Entries in the Miss PNE and Miss Canada contests are limited to 30 girls. There is no limit on the number of girls who may enter the Miss Victoria contest.

Pre-judging, to reduce the number of girls to eight finalists, will be held April 3. Judges for the contest are Mrs. Dorothy Wrotnowski, Colonist social editor; Miss Elizabeth Forbes, Ted Bissland, Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow and Capt. J. C. Gray.

The girl chosen Miss Victoria will win a $100 scholarship, an evening gown valued at more than $300 and an all-expenses-paid trip to take part in the Miss Canada contest at Hamilton, Ont.

The girl chosen as the first princess will represent Victoria in the Miss PNE contest in Vancouver.

The Miss Victoria contest is limited to girls between 18 and 26 years. Full details are obtainable from William Hughes, EV 3-1106 during the day and EV 3-2089 evenings.

HOLDING INCREASED

The Anglo-Canadian Telephone Co. has increased its holding in B.C. Telephone by 107,574 shares as a result of the recent stock offering.

It now owns 537,870 shares, or 35 per cent, of the common stock of the B.C. Telephone Co.

Around the Island

Hit-and-Run Driver Leaves Clear Trail

NANAIMO — A hit-and-run driver literally left a trail to his own garage door after he collided with a parked car on a city street.

Police and the damaged-car owner tracked George Vlasich to his home on Haliburton Street by following a trail of water on the roadway.

The accused, who was fined $100, had damaged his radiator in the smash. He said he did not stop because he was hurrying home for supper.

Donella Richmond, 21-year-old adventure-lover from Nanaimo who left her job last June for a trip around the world will arrive in Saint John, N.B., tomorrow aboard the Empress of France.

She started out on her trip by booking passage last year on a cargo ship for Japan.

ERRINGTON — "A festival of high calibre with terrific talent in evidence," said adjudicator Alex Hood, in summary on the closing night of the Errington Junior drama festival. The choice of plays in general was good and most of the players compared favorably with the performances of the same plays in other festivals he had adjudicated, said Mr. Hood.

Best actor (elementary) award went to Tom Dodds, Parksville, best actress award (elementary) Trudy Simons, Ladysmith, best director (elementary) Marjorie Walker, Ladysmith.

Best actor (junior) Wayne Trudell, Yellow Point, best actress (junior) Ina Peterson, Nanaimo. John L. Getgood received the best director (junior) and best visual award in this production.

Best actor (senior) George Dodds, Qualicum Beach High School, best actress (senior) Judy Lockwood, Qualicum Beach High School, B. J. McDonald, Qualicum, best director (senior).

Eleven plays were presented during the three-day festival with groups from Ladysmith, Lantzville, Nanaimo, Qualicum Beach, Parksville, Errington, Coombs, and Yellow Point participating.

Chairman was Mrs. Chris Horsfield.

NANAIMO — A Victoria skating trio endeared itself to a crowd of about 1,200 people who watched Nanaimo Figure Skating Club's "Concert on Ice" here Saturday.

Guest artists were B.C. bronze medal dance champions Lorraine Hyne and Len Simpson, from Victoria, and 11-year-old Bruce Kaiser.

Bruce was particularly popular with his comic antics.

NANAIMO (CP) — Two large salmon—made of granite—will be a sight for visitors to this Vancouver Island city this summer.

Two Nanaimo groups — the Italian-Canadian Circle and the Felise Cavalotti—are making the traffic island at the intersection of Nicol and Terminal Streets into a fountain with chopped stone walks, some grass, and overhead the two salmon, each weighing 2,500 pounds.

Chief stone carver is Albert Venuti, 69, who has already worked 800 hours and estimates another few hundred hours is needed before the eight-foot, six-inch male salmon and the eight-foot female are finished.

Mr. Venuti works slowly and carefully in his backyard workshop. The fountain project also proceeds slowly, for it is being done by volunteer labor and can go ahead only when more money is received for materials. Mr. Venuti, a miner until he was injured 18 years ago, is donating his labor.
